

UPLIFE

BUDTENDER FAQ

Fast answers for common Uplife questions

A sales-floor reference for compliant product conversations grounded in format, flavor, potency, and customer experience level.

DO

Talk about flavor, format, package potency, and serving discipline.

DO NOT

Promise medical outcomes, onset timing, or a guaranteed experience.

Frequently asked questions

What is Uplife?

Uplife is a Missouri cannabis edibles brand focused on measured gummies, chocolate pieces, and tablets for adults who want familiar formats and consistent portions.

How should customers start?

Encourage customers to start low, wait before taking more, and follow package directions. Tolerance, food intake, and experience level can change how an edible feels.

Which format should I recommend?

Gummies are approachable and fruit-forward. Chocolates fit customers looking for a dessert-like edible. Tablets are portable and formula-driven.

Can I make medical claims?

No. Keep language educational and product-focused. Avoid promising treatment, cures, sleep outcomes, pain relief, anxiety relief, or guaranteed effects.

FAQ continued

What should new edible shoppers know?

Edibles take longer than inhaled cannabis. Remind shoppers to plan ahead, avoid driving or operating machinery, and keep products away from children and pets.

Where is Uplife currently available?

Uplife is available at The Heights Cannabis in Maryland Heights and High Profile locations in Pineville and Holland, Missouri.

What makes the lineup easy to sell?

The family structure is simple: fruit gummies, dessert chocolates, and portable tablets. Lead with format, flavor, potency, and customer experience level.

What if a shopper asks for pricing?

Pricing should be handled by the dispensary menu or POS. The Uplife website is designed for legitimacy and product education rather than direct purchase pricing.